CALGARY, February 22, 2005.

WellPoint Systems Inc. ("WellPoint" or the "Company") (TSX-V:WPS) announced today that Mr. Glen Murphy, President, has announced his decision to resign from the company effective immediately and will remain with the company in a consulting capacity. Mr. Randy Kuehn, Vice President of Strategy, has also announced his decision to retire from the company effective March 31, 2005 and will also remain with the company in a consulting capacity. "Glen and Randy have played an instrumental part in WellPoint's past success," stated Frank Stanford, CEO of WellPoint Systems. I would like to wish them both the best as they go forth with new endeavors and express my appreciation that both have agreed to continue working with our company in a consulting capacity."

"I am extremely proud of the WellPoint people and products," reports Mr. Murphy, "and I look forward to keeping in contact, and helping complete several on-going projects, especially in the U.S."

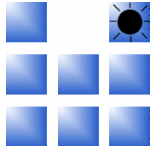

"Now that the Company has launched the Integrated Financial System, I see this as a logical time to step aside and hand the reigns over to others in the organization," states Mr. Kuehn.
